

Proper Treatment

SCRAP IRON is worth about $50 a ton. Mainspring steel for watches is worth about $22,000 a ton. Both are made from the same kind of ore. What makes the difference in price? It's the TREATMENT the metal receives, that's all. The dollars you handle idly, spend foolishly, invest carelessly, are worth but little to you in the long run. The dollars you save and carefully invest, increase in value and lay the foundation for a fortune. The dollars in each case are the same. It's the TREATMENT they receive that makes the difference. See the point?
